

The Chocolate Puzzle

Everyone in the world knew about Grandfather Arthur's chocolates. They were the sweetest, most delicious treats ever made.

But it wasn't just the flavor that made them famous.
Inside every single wrapper was a mysterious puzzle.

CRINKLE...

For fifty long years, the puzzle had been entirely unsolvable.

*Because the puzzle wasn't really a game.
It was a secret language of love, created long ago when Arthur was just a boy.*

If you can read
the stars, you'll always know what
my heart is saying.

"No matter how far apart we are, Arthur, I will always understand you."

But tragedy struck. Clara passed away while they were still young, leaving Arthur's heart utterly broken.

PITTER-PATTER...
PITTER-PATTER...

Fifty years passed. The chocolate traveled across boundaries and borders, but the message remained unanswered.

Until one ordinary afternoon, half a century later, the impossible happened.

A child, guided by pure, innocent intuition, cracked the secret code.

But time waits for no one. The overwhelming emotion and decades of waiting were too much for his frail, elderly body.

Arthur found himself lying in a hospital bed, his long and beautiful life drawing to a close.

He would never get the chance to meet the child who solved the puzzle.

WHISPER OF THE WIND...

*This is a story of everlasting love.
A love that crosses time, age, and all boundaries...
until they met again.*

We are finally home.
